TWO'S COMPANY INTRODUCES PERSONAL CARE LINE DESIGNED BY AMANDA DEPEW

NEW YORK, June 1, 2005 - Two's Company, the leading giftware manufacturer, and Amanda Depew, noted wallpaper and fabric designer, have created an exclusive signature collection of personal bath and boudoir products. The line, which will launch summer 2005, is based on Amanda's whimsical designs and targets upscale specialty and department stores.

The collection includes such items as soap sets, air mists, hand soap and lotion sets, bath powder puff, candles, jewelry cases, hatboxes, and hand towels. Each item has been created from the finest elements available; French triple-milled soaps, and fragrances distilled from pure floral essences. Every item is artfully packaged; many in keepsake containers that will delight even the most discriminating collector.

Tom Gottlieb, President of Two's Company, says, "Amanda's look stands out as something special and unique in today's crowded personal care market." The collection features soft colors, sophisticated design and wonderful fragrances.

Amanda Depew began her career as a designer for internationally renowned companies that include Brunschwig & Fils, Scalamandre, and Cowtan & Tout. After her uniquely romantic yet contemporary style became trademarks for several textile companies, Amanda decided to go out on her own with her collection of handmade decorative boxes, encased in her signature designs. Her box collection, which sells in upscale specialty and department stores, has been featured in such publications as Martha Stewart and Victoria. Amanda attended the School of Visual Arts in New York City.

Amanda Depew says that "I am thrilled about my relationship with Two's Company, and it is the exciting start to extending my product mix."
